The prelims paper of GS for last years in changed pattern have proved the pivotal role of geography. This further reveals prominence of geography in GS syllabus. The Trends of question not just reveals growing importance of geography and its multidimensional avenues, it is also reflecting the change of nature from absolute straight forward questions to relative questions. Viewing both, increased number of questions and analytical nature of the same, modifications in approaches of preparation is required. The Strategy of preparation in our institute is to recognize these changes to make you remain current and contemporary. The nature of examinations now reflective with no obligation of bearing the burden of facts. Preparation approach should be to concomitant concept with logic. Excelling in the preparation required omitting of exceptive approach and getting on to inclusive pattern. Our FLEXI MODULES of preparation absolutely targets the same. Geography modules will cater all the requisites inclusive Pre-Cum-Main orientation. The objective is to cater holistic requirement of exam to take note of changing trends and resent the rush.
